

Are you a business owner or executive who wants to improve how technology impacts your business, yet you don't know where to start? Or perhaps you are skeptical, questioning the value of prior purchases, or confused by all the propaganda and the pace of change in the technology industry? Take comfort in knowing you're not alone. Hi, I'm John Baltes president of SVA Consulting. An advisory group that specializes in aligning technology with business needs. At SVA Consulting we help leaders just like you identify which, and as important, when technology can be successfully applied to your organization. Our services don't start with the promotion of technology, they start with understanding the challenges affecting your business. Often we advise on changes on how existing technology can be used differently rather than recommending a change. Our goal is to solve business problems and enhance your existing practice. In providing strategic technology service for over 20 years, we've seen and solved a lot of problems. In that same timeframe we've also seen in witnessed unprecedented change in the technology available to businesses. Frankly, keeping up with all this has become a daunting task and truly requires a long-term plan that complements your corporate strategy. As simple as it sounds that's where many organizations just missed the mark. I am optimistic we are the long-term partner you've been seeking in your business. With over ninety-one percent of our business coming from client and advisory referrals our results really speak for themselves. Let us help you gain control of your corporate technology with some very straightforward planning services.